Ward Census Fact Sheet

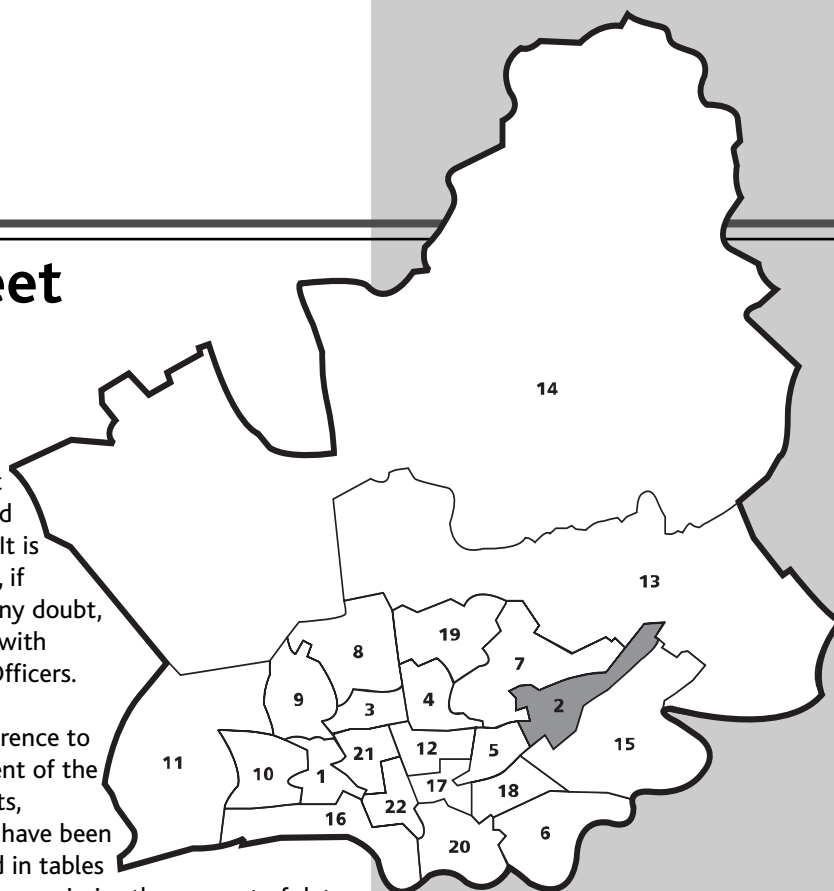

The information in this fact sheet is derived from the 2001 and 1991 Censuses as published by the Office of National Statistics (ONS). The fact sheets aim to provide a brief statistical summary of the major Census topics within each electoral ward in Preston as at April 2001 when the Census was taken. Although the wards differ in geographical size, they are drawn up so that the size of the populations are similar, approximately 5-7,000 people. Wards are one of the basic units used in the collection and distribution of Census data. The Council has also produced Census News publications which refer to the city as a whole.

Those intending to use the information contained in this document should take note of the following points. Firstly the information portrayed here is done so in good faith but because ONS both collected and analysed it, the City Council cannot be held responsible for its accuracy. Secondly, it is advisable to check that the definitions in the tables mean what you think they mean. It has been necessary to summarise definitions to present the maximum amount of data. Thirdly, copyright restrictions imposed on original Census data prevent its duplication by those not authorised to do so. It is advisable, if there is any doubt, to check with Council Officers.

With reference to the content of the fact sheets, statistics have been presented in tables in order to maximise the amount of data included. Attention should also be drawn to the ONS practice of adding or subtracting a single unit at random to the counts which make up the ward totals. This modification is used to ensure anonymity for individuals. The result is that some totals, which are expected to be identical, may be slightly different.

Some of the statistics included in the fact sheets, for example religion, are not comparable between Censuses because the base questions in the 2001 Census differ from those asked in the 1991 Census.
